

Changing Environment & Future Trends in Leadership Development

Purpose

The environment of today's workplace is growing increasingly complex, and for many, that complexity is overwhelming their capacity to cope. Much of the stress that leaders experience today has less to do with workload and more to do with the tension of trying to make sense of an environment that has become too complex for their current stage of development. Do you recognize any of these conditions in your own organization?

The question becomes how to ensure our leaders are equipped to deal with an increasingly volatile, uncertain, complex and ambiguous workplace. The skills needed for leadership have changed, but the methods used to develop those skills have not. How do we develop leaders with new methods so they can succeed in the changing environment?

Join us in this highly interactive, creative, and innovative leadership course. You will enjoy short video clips, small and large group activities, and sharing of new ideas.

Length

3.5 hours

Intended Audience

Everyone in the UPS and Consortium members

Learning Path(s)

Evolving Leader

Facilitator(s)

UPS, Human Resources

REGISTER NOW

If you do not have OPUS access, please register through your learning contact.

Open To

All UPS employees and Consortium members

Objectives

- Define trends for future leadership development
 - Horizontal & vertical development
 - Individual development ownership
 - Collaborative & innovative leadership
- Discuss how these trends address current leadership challenges
- Compare and contrast horizontal and vertical development
- Identify ways to apply these trends
- Develop an action plan to apply these trends to both your organizational and individual leadership development

When & Where

Wed., Sept. 25, 2019, 8:30-12:00
Annex Room 429